Coffee is dull and 1s. per cwt. down in Mid-Plantation Ceylon. At the Skin sales Bombay Goat Skins are rather dearer.

The Liverpool Cotton market yesterday closed quiet, Surats in favour of buyers, the day's sales being estimated at 8,000 bales, including 1,000 Surats. Spot prices show a decline of 1-16d. in Mid-Uplands and Good Ginned Broach, and in American to arrive the only change is a decline of 1-64d. in October-November. In New York yesterday ready Mid-Uplands were unaltered at 10⅝ cents, but December deliveries were 2 points higher at 10·64 cents per lb. The receipts at the U. S. ports give the following comparisons with the corresponding dates of the two previous seasons :—

	1884	1883	1882
Wednesday's Receipts	5,000	8,000	7,500
Five days' do.	26,000	39,000	30,700
Total since 1st Sept	43,000	75,000	60,000

The monthly report of the Washington Agricultural Bureau is to hand to-day, giving the average condition of the crop in 10 Cotton states as 82½ per cent. The lower estimate, it is added, is in consequence of the draught. The following shows the comparisons with previous seasons :—

	1884	1883	1882	1881
August Report	82	85·3	92·3	89·5
Sept. do.	82½	74	91·2	71

The falling off is not so heavy as last year at the same time, still we do not look upon it as a promising report, and we fancy a maximum yield of about 6¼ millions will become about the favorite figure. This, with the existing statistical position, does not favour lower prices, and were it not for the Chinese imbroglio and the aspect of affairs on the Continent, we should look upon an awkward movement as pretty well assured.

The market for the staple here remains quite unchanged. For export the enquiry is light, and we have not heard of any fresh business of importance.

WHEAT is depressed, and almost nominal as regards price. Linseed continues firm, and Rs. 6·1 per cwt. is now asked.

FREIGHTS, so far from improving, are rather weaker again, the Anchor Line steamer having been berthed for Liverpool at 12s. 6d. per ton for 1,450 tons Wheat, September shipment. For Continental ports we quote 17s. 6d. to 20s., but the inquiry is insignificant.

IMPORTS.—Piece-goods are quiet. The break in communication on the B. B. & C. I. Railway rather interferes with buying for up-country, but prices are firmly held. Coals continue to advance, and there are now no sellers under Rs. 16 for Davison's West Hartley and Rs. 16-8 for Cardiff. Even these figures barely cover home cost.

EXCHANGE.—At the weekly biddings for Councils in London yesterday there were no allotments, which means that there were no applications at 1s. 7¼d. After the biddings, however, private buyers appear to have taken Rs. 3,60,000 of telegraphic at the limit, and Rs. 1,60,000 appear to have been placed during the previous week. This, with Bar Silver down 1-16d. at 50 11-16d. per oz., at which it seems easily obtainable, shipments being advised of £40,000 for Bombay and £50,000 for Calcutta, has necessarily exercised a depressing influence on the market here to-day. Rates opened very irregularly, several of the banks being buyers at 1-32d. decline, whilst one was a drawer at 1-32d. advance, viz., 1s. 8d. for demand. This latter rate, however, was not maintained, and we close dull at the following quotations :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 7 15-32d.	per rupee.
Do. Telegraphic	1s. 7 7-16d.	"
Do. Three months' sight	1s. 7 19-32d.	"
Credits do.	1s. 7 ¾d.	"
Francs do.	2·07	"

GOVERNMENT PAPER is quiet, and very little business has been done. Fours we now quote Rs. 99 3-16 cash, and Fours and-a-half Rs. 102.

SHARES have been a trifle steadier to-day, in as much as some of the bear sellers have been covering in to secure their profits, and owing to this Spinning Mill shares are occasionally Rs. 5 better. The market, however, is not of itself stronger. Bombay Burma Trading Co.'s shares are Rs. 50 ower again at Rs. 4,700.

INDISPENSABLE TO TRAVELLERS IN INDIA.

DEFECTIVE OR FAILING SIGHT.

THE sense of sight is so valuable that the importance of perfect and carefully adjusted spectacles can scarcely be overrated; although the wearing of single eye-glasses should be strictly avoided, we have the highest medical authority confirmed by daily experience, that imperfect glasses, together with the haphazard plan of selection generally employed, are frequent causes of irremediable injury to the sight; and as no pr economy can compensate for such a loss, it be all to be cautious how they are tempted to common pebble or glass spectacles now so old.

The Bombay Gazette

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1884.

WE briefly announced yesterday that the Earl of Dufferin had been chosen as the Marquis of Ripon's successor in the Viceroyalty of India. From information which has reached us, we are able to add that the change will probably be made in the first days of December, so that the new Viceroy may enter upon the duties of his office at the beginning of the Calcutta Legislative Session. Lord Dufferin's appointment fulfils the expectations which have been current for some time past, and it will be regarded in India with general satisfaction. Lord Dufferin has all along seemed not only the most suitable man for the post, but the man whose appointment to it would be most liked both here and at home. Not many of the statesmen of our time have made a more satisfying impression upon the public than he. How much of his success has been due to his singularly graceful oratory, and how much to statesmanlike qualities of the higher kind, is a question upon which men are not in perfect agreement. The descendant, on his mother's side, of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, he may be deemed an orator by inheritance. Certain it is that no small part of the popularity which he attained during his tenure of the office of Governor-General of the Canadian Dominion was owing to his power of captivating large audiences by an eloquence to which our fellow-subjects in the far North-West were entirely unaccustomed. If his tours through the Dominion had something of the character of royal progresses, it was in a very large degree because of this. Canadians cherish to this day the memory of the glowing periods in which he pourtrayed to them the beauties and the riches of their country. Those "Canadian speeches" indeed have already taken their place amongst the more abiding literature of the Dominion, and we in India can scarcely turn back to them without wondering if the splendour of the East, its picturesque and varied and vigorous life, will be equally potent in firing his sympathetic and powerful imagination. If, however, we recall this interesting element in Lord Dufferin's life, it is with no desire to over-estimate the value of eloquence as a qualification for so serious an employment as that of presiding over the administration of the Indian Empire. It is rather for the purpose of putting on record the fact that the key-note of his oratory during that important period of his career was supplied in his unbounded faith in the future of the people committed to his charge. It was not his eloquence that charmed the Canadians so much as the generous yet sober and practical optimism which inspired it. There is so much need in India for the constant exercise of that spirit that we cannot but welcome a statesman who is sure, whatever his other merits may be, to have a firm faith in the destinies of this Empire.

The experience of the Governor-General elect has thus far been so singularly fortunate that people will instinctively form favourable expectations regarding his Indian career. We cannot, of course, take for granted that the statesman who made a good Viceroy in Canada will make an equally good Viceroy in India, but it is natural that this view of the probabilities of the case should largely prevail. From Lord Dufferin's achievements in many and varied fields we know that he will set out upon his new work thoroughly well equipped for it. He has had the good fortune to inspire confidence from a very early period in his public career. He was still a young man when Lord Palmerston, nearly a quarter of a century ago, entrusted him with the delicate task of supervising the measures for the pacification of the Lebanon which were undertaken in concert by France and England. Exacting though the task was, and easy though it would have been even for a competent man to fail in it, Lord Dufferin did it well, and it seemed a fitting recognition of his tact and capacity when four years later he was made Under-Secretary of State for India. This office he filled for nearly two years, vacating it for a brief tenure of the Under-Secretaryship for War just before the downfall of Earl Russell's second Administration in 1865. A more appropriate experience for one who was destined in later life to become Governor-General of India could scarcely have been allotted to Lord Dufferin, and it was the more valuable inasmuch as he had as his chief so able an Indian administrator as Sir Charles Wood. His next official appointment—that of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in Mr. Gladstone's first Administration—gave him a less special experience, but to a young statesman with a liking for work the place would offer abundant opportunities. In Lord Dufferin's time the Chancellorship of the Duchy was no sinecure, and it was felt, when the Governorship General of Canada was conferred upon him, that by good work in every position which he had hitherto filled he had proved himself to be worthy of the confidence which the Crown had reposed in him. It is upon inferences drawn from the record of his six years' administration of the Dominion that the public will be most ready to base their expectations concerning Lord Dufferin's coming viceroyalty. Allowance must, of course, be made for differences in the conditions with which a Viceroy in Canada and a Viceroy in India have to deal—differences so great and so vital that the two offices can scarcely be said to resemble each other except in name. But the Indian Empire and the Canadian Dominion are alike at least in their vastness, and in the multiplicity of the political and administrative operations that are carried on within their borders; and we know that the vastness of the Dominion did not deter Lord Dufferin from exercising his personal influence and supervision over the whole of it, and that in spite of the complication and variety of its political mechanism, everything worked in harmony under his direction. Canada, perhaps, teaches in a direct way very few of the lessons which an Indian administrator has to learn. But we cannot doubt that Lord Dufferin's work in India will be powerfully influenced by the lessons of his Canadian career. He may yet have much to learn, but he will have less to unlearn than if he had come from England with no larger experience than Whitehall can supply.

The diplomatic period of Lord Dufferin's public life has been in some respects the most arduous of all, and if it has not been the most substantially successful, the fault has [illegible]ly lain with him. His appointment to [illegible]ssy at St. Petersburg early in 1879 was [illegible] rather more satisfaction by the Con[illegible]an by his former party associates. [illegible]here was for this satisfaction [illegible]uite clear. In the course of the discussion the best names will be doubtless brought forward, and those which are impossible will have some chance of being eliminated before any harm is done. The public have certainly a right to enter a strong protest against the agricultural and commercial interests of the most progressive part of India being sacrificed to some fossil colonial or domineering Indian official. "Tellus" discusses the suggestion that the Government should be asked to nominate Sir James Caird to the Governorship. Sir James, he points out, is a man of wide views, trained in English public life, with some knowledge of, and much sympathy for, the people of this country, and one who, from his intellectual habits, would judge for himself on the evidence, and would refuse to look at questions through official spectacles. These qualifications have their weight, but, as "Tellus" himself observes, it is probable that advancing years would deter Sir James Caird from undertaking the burden of so responsible an office. Perhaps the strongest qualification possessed by Sir James Caird is one which has not been alluded to by "Tellus," namely, that he is a man completely out of the usual circle of those amongst whom Indian Governors are in general sought. He would bring to Government House new ideas, and principles of action which, if not new, would be at least novel to the official world in general in this country. As an alternative to Sir James, our correspondent suggests Lord Lyttelton, who is now Sir James's colleague on the Land Commission, and who possesses special qualifications for the Governorship. Other names will, no doubt, be suggested and canvassed. It is desirable that the fullest discussion should be accorded to a matter of so much importance as the personality of a new Governor. The time has come when public opinion should rightfully exercise an avowed influence in the matter of these high appointments.

THE FRANCO-CHINESE WAR.

THE BOMBARDMENT OF FOOCHOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

COLOMBO, SEPT. 11.

The China mails arrived in the steamer Clyde at 4 o'clock this afternoon. News of the bombardment at Foochow was brought to Hongkong by the steamer Woosung, which left on the Sunday the day after the bombardment. Hostilities were commenced at two o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, the 23rd. All the women and children on ships in the harbour were ordered ashore. The following French ships took part in the action:—The Volta, the Villars, the Triomphante, the d'Estaing, the Duguay, the Tronin, the Lynx, the Vipere, and the Aspic. Hostilities took place off the Pagoda Fort higher up the river than where merchant vessels anchored. The Chinese vessels were the corvette Yang Wo, seven gun-boats, three transports, and numerous war junks. A signal gun was fired from the Volta, and the French fleet opened fire. This was immediately replied to by the Chinese. The French at first confined their fire to the Chinese fleet, which made contemptible resistance, with the exception of the gunboat Chian Woo. Her crew only slipped her cable and deserted her when on fire. The other vessels fired one round, and being appalled at the effects of the French fire jumped overboard. The water was soon covered with Chinese, many of whom were picked up by English boats. The Hook Sing and Hung Sing were sunk, the Yang Woo was burnt and destroyed by a torpedo boat, the Chian Woo was blown up by a torpedo boat, and the next vessel was also in flames.

Then the French turned their fire on the arsenal and fort, which made but little better resistance than the gunboats. They fired at long intervals, and were soon silenced. The burning Chinese ships drifted amongst the merchant shipping. The crews of the English men-of-war did excellent service in extricating them. They also saved a thousand Chinamen. The arsenal was silenced by six o'clock. The French kept up their fire on the ships and arsenal long after resistance had ceased, and even fired at burning drifting vessels.

The next morning they opened fire again on the forts, completely demolishing it and Chinese armament buildings. The French landed no troops. Their loss was trifling.

British ships in harbour were the Glenfuilar, the Taku, Mary, Austin, Guilding Star, and which had all been exposed to much of the burning Chinese gunboats. The man-of-war were the Champion, the Sapphire, Vigilant, and at Foochow the Merlin, American gunboat Monacacy—all watchful interests of the foreign community.

Of 400 British and American and French troops are guarded the European residents at Foochow. The French, it is reported, also hold the forts at the mouth of the river, and proceeded to Woosung.

A pilot, named Thomas, was killed on the French ship Volta.

It is believed, only fired three rounds and the gunboats bolted. A burning vessel drifted down as far as the Glenfinlar and sank under water. The French fired at her till she was sunk. They ceased fire from fear of hitting the vessel. The German barque Sin Kolga made her escape. A burning gunboat got entangled with the vessels. [illegible] yards; but the British Admiral sent [illegible] ared the vessels.

The new Viceroy, it may not be generally known, has composed despatches which, to judge from some of the passages in them, are as eloquent as the most eloquent of his speeches. His report on the Lebanon was in great part a graphic and telling narrative, but the most remarkable examples of his literary work are to be gathered from the famous despatches which he sent to the Foreign Office from Cairo early in 1883. He therein tells us that even in "the unchanging East" there is no reason why people should be "eternally impervious to the teachings of civic morality and the instincts of patriotism" Of the Nile we read that year after year it "conveys in its affluent waters riche treasures than did ever the fabled Pactolus." Most graceful, too, is the metaphor in which he tells those who have pretended to remedy the ills of Egypt that "instead of seeking for the roots, too much regard has been paid to the murmuring leaves." But there is nothing in the despatch—or out of it—which equals this striking passage:—"The metamorphic spirit of the age, as evoked by the inventions of science, intercourse with Egyptian countries, and other invigorating influences, has already done something to inspire the fellah with the rudiments of self-respect and a dim conception of hitherto unimagined possibilities. Nor, like his own Memnon, has he remained irresponsive to the beams of the new dawn. His lips have trembled, if they have not articulated—" But here the quotation must cease, for it is just here that the writer returns to the practical view.

THERE was a fair attendance at the special general meeting of the Bombay Millowners' Association held yesterday afternoon to discuss the report of a sub-committee appointed to consider the falling off of the demand in this country for Indian-made goods. Taking the years 1880 and 1882 as most suited for instituting an accurate comparison, the committee stated that whereas the exports from this city of Indian-made grey goods to India and other countries had only increased from 79,600 bales to 87,695, the exports of the same kind of Europe-made goods had risen from 118,600 to 136,107 bales. To account for the greater popularity of articles of English manufacture, it was contended that the taste of the people of this country had changed with their increasing wealth. The committee were, however, of opinion that the consumption of Indian-made goods had kept pace with their production. The committee also condemned the practice of marking the bales with figures which did not represent the actual lengths and widths of the pieces, and suggested means for the removal of an evil which had a most prejudicial effect on the trade. On the motion of Mr. Cotton, the report was adopted, and the committee were thanked for their labours. Mr. Damodar Thakersey Muljee then submitted a proposition urging the advisability of sending out agents to find new markets for the goods, and collecting subscriptions for the furtherance of this object. The committee were authorized to make proper arrangements for this purpose. A letter from the Consul-General for Belgium, asking the Bombay millowners to take steps for the representation of their goods at the Antwerp Exhibition which is to be held next summer, was ordered to be circulated among the members. The meeting terminated with the usual vote of thanks to the chairman, Mr. D. M. Petit.

AFTER a trial extending over two days, Mirza Aga Secunder was convicted by the special jury, yesterday, of committing the double murder of a Mogul merchant named Hajee Mahomed Shuffer Shoostri and of his wife Hajee Bebee. Mr. Justice Hart, in summing up the case to the jury, remarked that the chief witness was Mahomed Tucki, an accomplice, whose evidence could not be accepted without corroboration. In his lordship's opinion, there was abundance of corroborative evidence; and the only question was as to whether it was reliable or not. There was material corroboration supplied by the prisoner himself; for he took the police to the spot where the clothes were buried, and pointing to it, said "Here are the bloody clothes." The suggestion made by the prisoner's counsel, that the case had been got up by the police, could not, his lordship remarked, be sustained. The jury found the prisoner guilty by a majority of eight to one; and the prisoner was sentenced to death.

Nariman in physiology and histology; Dr. Milne and Dr. K. R. Viccajee in chemistry, including practical chemistry, general and pharmaceutical chemistry, and detection of the adulteration of drugs; and Dr. Sakharam Arjun Ravut and Dr. MacDonald in botany, materia medica, and pharmacy. A meeting of the examiners, presided over by the dean of the Faculty, will be held on the 27th instant, to determine the results of the examination.

THERE was a notable decrease in the mortality from cholera in Bombay during the week ending 9th inst. The number of fatal cases registered during the week was only 16, against 23 last week and 46 in the corresponding week of last year. The victims consisted of 1 European, 1 Brahmin, 5 Hindoos of other castes, 2 Hindoo outcastes, 2 Mussulmans, 1 Parsee, and 4 native Christians.

THE following is the official summary of the Bombay Presidency season reports for the week ending the 9th instant:—Rain sufficient in Sind, Gujarat, Nasik, Khandesh, and the Konkan, but slight in other parts of the Presidency; more urgently wanted in most districts of the Deccan and Southern Maratha Country; kharif crops in parts of Shikarpur and the Upper Sind Frontier, and bajri and cotton in parts of Ahmedabad, slightly damaged by excessive rain. Young crops withering for want of rain in three talukas of Ahmednuggur and one of Belgaum. Want of fodder much felt in Sholapur and Ahmednuggur. Preparations for rabi sowing commenced in three districts. Cholera, fever, small-pox, and cattle-disease continue in several districts.

THE infirmary which is to be opened about the middle of next ... month, probably near the Gi... tram terminus, will treat diseases of the eye as well as of the ear. The institution will be called the Bombay Eye and Ear Infirmary.

THE Chief Justice and judges of the Bombay High Court have framed the following rule. To avoid a diversity of practice ascertained to prevail in Subordinate Courts in regard to the manner in which applications for execution of decrees are dealt with on a stay of execution by order of the Civil Court, the Hon. the Chief Justice and judges are pleased to direct that when execution of a decree is stayed by a competent court, the application for such execution should not be struck off the file, but adjourned pending the final order of the court staying execution.

THE letter of the Bombay correspondent of the Pioneer this week consists of an elaborate and exhaustive review of the recent Resolution of the Bombay Government taxing sub-soil water. He believes that the proposal to tax subsoil water in the approaching revision settlement in Guzerat is not only contrary to sound policy, but is in direct violation of a positive pledge. He concludes as follows:—

Government promise to watch what they admit is still a matter of experiment. But all they can tell us now is that the existence of sub-soil water is "ascertained by careful investigation by "skilled agency working under very elaborate rules." One of these rules, I may remark in passing, is the very reverse of elaborate, being simply to this effect, that when once the Survey Department have said that a certain field has good sub-soil water, the onus shall lie upon the cultivator of proving that they are in error! Again, it seems to me that Government are not sufficiently alive to the importance of bringing the law and the regulations of their Survey Department down to the "meanest intellectual capacity." When certain cultivators came to Government, and asked them to say how that wonderful section 107 would be applied to a case they put, which was their own case, Colonel Anderson advised Government to refer the applicants to the words of the section which constituted their difficulty, on the ground that to add any explanation or comment would be "unsafe." This is the reverse of the policy which Government should pursue. But this advice was taken. I confess I think it would be a great social and political gain if the existing measurements and classifications in Guzerat were accepted, as it is proposed the next should be accepted, as sufficiently accurate to be final, if the hand of the Survey Department were stayed, and if the Guzerat ryot already inoccupation of 96 per cent. of the available land were told at once, in the words of the Viceroy, that the present tax is the measure of the State demand upon him, and that he may improve and reap the fruit of his improvements in peace.

THE heavy rain which has been reported during the past few days from the Central Provinces seems to have been due to the passage across the country of a wave of "barometric depression," of which we hear so much in the weather reports. The depression originated somewhere near Calcutta and travelled westward by way of Burdwan and Chota Nagpore to Jubbulpore, giving from 3 to 5 inches of rain along its route. Thence it turned to the south-westward, deluging on the 6th instant Seoni (8½ inches), Kamptee and Hoshungabad (5½ inches), Khandwa and Amraoti (3 inches each). On the 7th instant the downfall continued at Khandwa (5 inches in the 24 hours), and the depression then slowly moved on to Indore, whence heavy rain is now reported. Last year a similar depression crossed India on much the same lines, and terminated its career in the Persian Gulf, Surat suffering disastrously from its final effects on land.

ALLEGED CURE OF SNAKE-BITE.—Banee, a woman, 25 years of age, living at Walkeshwar, was bitten on the right ankle by a snake on Wednesday morning. Her husband promptly tied a bandage above the wound, and called in a "medicine-man" named Vishna Nana, who has a local reputation for curing snake-bites. He recommended what is known as the "chicken cure," and twelve chickens were applied to the wound. The chickens having absorbed the poison, they died one after the other and when two more chickens had been applied without any ill effects to themselves, she was declared to be cured, and free from danger. Upon information being given to the police, she was conveyed by the J. J. Hospital, where she remained till 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., and then went home, apparently quite well. An effort was made when the woman was bitten to kill the snake, but it effected its escape.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS IN BOMBAY.—The total number of deaths registered during the week ended on Tuesday, 9th instant, was 512, being 1 more than the number registered in the week ending 11th September, 1883, and 81 more than the mean of the corresponding period in the preceding five years. During the week 260 births were reported, being an increase in the number of those up. The rate of mortality per 1,000 of population per annum was 30.47, calculated on the increase of population since 1881. There were 113 deaths from remittent fever, 9 less than the previous week, and 42 more than in the same period last year. There were deaths from diseases of the respiratory system, diarrhœa, and dysentery were last week 84, 24, and 18 respectively, as compared with 54, 23, and 10 in the same week last year. 16 deaths from cholera were registered last week as compared with 23 in the week previous.

THE following is the official summary of the Bombay Presidency season reports for the week ending the 9th instant:—Rain sufficient in Sind, Gujarat, Nasik, Khandesh, and the Konkan, but slight in other parts of the Presidency; more urgently wanted in most districts of the Deccan and Southern Maratha Country; kharif crops in parts of Shikarpur and the Upper Sind Frontier, and bajri and cotton in parts of Ahmedabad, slightly damaged by excessive rain. Young crops withering for want of rain in three talukas of Ahmednuggur and one of Belgaum. Want of fodder much felt in Sholapur and Ahmednuggur. DEATH UNDER AN ÆSNESTHETIC.—A coroner's inquest was held yesterday at the Byculla, on the body of Sulliman Oomer, aged 35 years. Deceased was a prisoner in the House of Correction, undergoing a term of two years' rigorous imprisonment. On the 20th of last month he was sent from the jail to the J. J. Hospital suffering from aneurism of the aorta, said to have been of several months' duration, and was under the care of Dr. Wellington Gray. On Tuesday morning Dr. Gray decided to perform an operation on him. The operation was fixed for 1 p.m., and just before that time a little of Bryant's mixture, consisting of chloroform, alcohol and ether, was being administered to the deceased. Suddenly his breathing became laboured, and the interval between the respirations longer; and notwithstanding all attempts at resuscitation he died soon after. The jury found that death was accidental under an Æsnesthetic.

TROUBLESOME SEAMEN.

ALEXANDER JOHNSON and Thomas David, able seamen of the County of Peebles, appeared yesterday before Mr. C. P. Cooper to answer a charge of assault committed upon John Murdoch, second officer of the same ship. The facts of the case have been reported. The two men denied the assault. Johnson said he saw David and the complainant fighting, and he only held David. He further said that the complainant had offered to fight the whole of the crew, because he once took a fight with one of them, and he (Johnson) "believed that he had licked him." David, who was allowed to question Murdoch, asked him if he had not challenged him to fight. Murdoch denied that he had. David said all the men, of whom there were about thirteen in court, all Scotch Indians, were there, and could prove it. He further asked Murdoch about the challenge, and when the latter denied ever challenging him, David said, "I have evidence to prove it, your honour."

James Fergusson, the chief officer, gave evidence as to the assault. He saw David strike complainant with a belaying pin. He took it away from David.

Another witness, Peter Frontein, was called; but as he swore who witness-box, both parties prisoners objected to his giving any evidence, as, they said, the second mate had suborned him.

His worship, however, heard the witness, who said he had seen David strike the second officer. He took the pin out of David's hand. He persisted in the statement, though Johnson told him that the chief mate had said he had taken the pin away. The witness was cross-questioned a good deal by the prisoners, but to no effect. They said the pin that had been in the galley all the time, and he could not have seen what had occurred. The witness denied that he was in the galley.

Robert Rangan, able seaman, also deposed to a scuffle taking place between the second officer and David. He saw David pick up a belaying pin, but did not see him strike the officer with it.

The second officer had no other witnesses; but as the captain was in court he asked that he should be questioned. The captain said there had been a scuffle while he was in his cabin. The mate had come to him with his thumb very badly bitten.

Johnson was then asked what he had to say. He repeated the statement he had made the previous day, adding that he had not laid a finger on the complainant. David also repeated his statement, that it was not the first time that the mate had challenged him to fight. They had not been away a month from Cardiff when he was challenged. He acknowledged, however, that he had taken part in the scuffle with the mate. He called three witnesses, all of whom said that they did see a scuffle, and that the treatment they had received from the hands of the second mate was very bad. He treated them like dogs; he never had a good word for anybody, and cursed and swore at them.

His worship said that it was the duty of the second officer to see that the men did their work on board properly, and there was no doubt that he was often placed in a very difficult position in endeavouring to get them to perform it. In this case the second officer was desirous of getting the men to their work properly, and perhaps he had not exercised that tact which he would exercise when he had more experience. Still that did not justify David in rushing at the mate and acting in the way he had done. He should have complained; if he had anything to complain of, to the captain who would have inquired into the affair. He sentenced David to six weeks' hard labour in the House of Correction. Johnson was discharged.

Antone Spencer then charged J. Gibbons with having used threatening language. He said Gibbons had called some one a coward, and when he went for him, Gibbons drew a knife from his sheath and threatened him. Spencer, however, still advanced on him, when Gibbons ran away. He called three witnesses, who corroborated his statement.

Gibbons explained that just after the row he called one of the men a coward, and when Spencer went up to hit him he drew his knife; he did so only to frighten him.

His worship told him that at all times drawing a knife was the most foolish and dangerous thing. The accused was discharged with a warning.

Captain Blair, master of the County of Peebles, then charged twelve of his men with refusing to do duty.

His worship asked each man separately what were his reasons for refusing duty, and what he had to complain of.

They one and all complained very bitterly of the conduct of the second officer, who, they said, wanted to fight all of them. They wanted to come ashore on Wednesday, but the captain would not take them ashore, nor would the police officer; so they had refused to do any work until they were enabled to go on shore to see a magistrate and complain of the treatment they had received. They said they would not go on board, and would rather go to jail for six months. They could not agree with the second officer.

His worship said he would not deal hastily with them; they had better consider the matter, and to-morrow morning (to-day) he would see if they were still of the same mind.

The men were then taken downstairs and kept in the chowkey. As they left the court they repeated that they would not go on board.

BOMBAY MILLOWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

A SPECIAL GENERAL MEETING of the Bombay Millowners' Association was held yesterday afternoon to consider the report of a special sub-committee appointed to consider the falling off of the demand in this country for Indian-made goods. Mr. Dinshaw Maneckjee Petit presided. The report is as follows:—

The following statistics, on which the conclusions of the Sub-Committee are based, are appended hereto:—

showing an increase in 1883 of 21 per cent. over 1881, of 6½ per cent. over 1880, of 8½ per cent. over 1879, and of 29 per cent. over 1878.

From Statement D, the following results are obtained:—

Exports of Indian-made grey piece-goods from Bombay into India and all other countries—

	1882. Bales.	1881. Bales.	1880. Bales.	1879. Bales.	1878. Bales.

Exports of Europe-made grey piece goods from Bombay into India and all other countries—showing an increase in 1882 of 9½ per cent. over 1881, and of 14½ per cent. over 1880, or an average of 12 per cent. over 1881 and 1880 together.

The statistics appended show that the exports of Indian-made goods, by sea and land, in 1881, were exceptionally low. In the mining the trowsers, witness found cuts near the knee. Witness thereupon went to the cbowkey, and, on examining the prisoner's person, observed several scratches on the shoulder-blades and other parts of the body. Witness on another occasion examined the top of the compound wall of the deceased's house, and noticed that the moss had been disturbed in one place.

Khan Bahadoor Meer Ahmed Ali, head of the detective branch of the police force, gave corroborative evidence. The prisoner made a statement, and pointed out a spot in the Muddar Chuila. He found buried underground a bundle of clothes, which were wet and dirty and appeared to be stained with blood. The ground was wet, and there were town sweepings there. The next day they were hung up to dry, and were afterwards made over to Mr. Sweeny.

Cross-examined by Mr. Kirkpatrick.—There were at first ten or twelve people under police surveillance. Fakirs live in the Muddar Chuila, which is not frequented by respectable people.

Two more witnesses were examined; and the case for the prosecution closed.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, in addressing the jury, complained that many of the witnesses for the prosecution had been for days under police surveillance; and he urged that the jury should accept their statements with great caution. The chief witness here was an accomplice; and the learned counsel told the jury that his evidence could not be accepted unless it was corroborated by independent testimony. It was a case of circumstantial evidence. There could be no doubt that an atrocious crime was committed on the night of the 24th June last. But what evidence was there to show that the prisoner was on that night at or near the house in question? It was that of Futteh Ali and Alexander Jacob. The learned counsel contended, however, that the evidence of those men could not be relied upon. It was a dark night; and yet those men undertook to identify the features of the man they saw running away. The learned counsel confidently asserted that it would not be safe to rely upon such evidence; and he hoped that the jury would not rely upon it. The street light was round the corner of the lane; and it could not possibly have enabled the witnesses to observe the features of the man who was running away. Neither of them was able to recognise the prisoner until they heard people in the street say, "The murderer has been arrested; there he is." The learned counsel argued that, unless there was independent evidence to satisfy the jury beyond a doubt that the prisoner was at or near the house of the deceased on the night in question, they were bound to acquit him. Another important point was whether the cloak and the white skull-cap were taken to, and left in, Hajee Bebee's room by the prisoner. The evidence of Hajee Bebee's brother was not trustworthy. He undertook to prove too much when he said that, on a dark night, as he was passing along the road, and saw the prisoner and Tucki at a distance, he could recognise the cloak and cap that were on the prisoner's person to be the same as those found in Hajee Bebee's bed-room. It was a singular circumstance that Hajee Bebee, who had known the prisoner for many years, said to a policeman, and in her declaration made at the hospital, that she did not know who the man was who wounded her and her husband. With regard to the prisoner's subsequent conduct, Mr. Kirkpatrick urged that Shabban's evidence was unreliable. The prisoner, as he had stated to the judge, was sleeping in his room all that night. He was quite alone in his room. As to other persons, who did not live there, visited him occasionally. The story told by Tucki and his wife was incredible. There was an absence of motive on the part of the prisoner to commit the atrocious crime charged against him. He had, for a period of at least four years, ceased to be actuated by jealousy against the deceased Shoostri for marrying a girl who had been promised to him by her mother; he had not seen her for a long time; and he had never, by word or deed, sought to molest or annoy her or her husband. Where, then, was his motive for committing the crime charged against him? There was none. In conclusion, the learned counsel reminded the jury of the grave responsibility attaching to them; upon their verdict depended the life or death of the prisoner at the bar.

Mr. Farran, in his reply to the address on behalf of the prisoner, reviewed the prominent circumstances of the case at great length, bringing into relief the points with regard to which, he contended, no reasonable explanation had been offered by or on behalf of the prisoner.

His lordship, in summing up to the jury, remarked as to the question of motive that the prosecution were not called upon to show a motive on the part of the prisoner; and that if their endeavour to prove a motive failed, it did not necessarily follow that the whole case failed. Motive was of various degrees of subtlety, and it was not a very easy thing under all circumstances to trace them. The chief evidence against the prisoner was that of Mahomed Tucki, an accomplice, which could not be accepted without corroboration. There could be no doubt that there was corroboration here upon material points; the only question was as to its being reliable corroboration or not. In fact, there was abundance of corroborative evidence to support the testimony of Mahomed Tucki. His lordship did not think that the suggestion made by Mr. Kirkpatrick, that the case had been got up by the police, could be sustained. If in the locality where some of the witnesses lived there was a lot of blackguards who wanted to get up a case against the prisoner, it must be remembered that Shabban and Dervish did not give information to the police until the prisoner was actually in custody; and no connection whatever was shown to exist between those two men and Hajee Bebee's brother. Then there was the material corroboration supplied by the prisoner himself in regard to the clothes that were buried; for he took the police to the spot, saying, "Here are the bloody clothes." How could he have been in a position to make that statement unless he knew considerably more than he now pretended? His lordship read the whole of the evidence in the case, with comments upon material portions of it. In commenting upon Mahomed Tucki's evidence, his lordship said the corroboration of an accomplice need not be thorough enough to cover every part. It was enough if he was corroborated on material points. The prisoner, in answer to his lordship, had said that he was alone in his own room from midnight till 5 a. m. on the morning of the 25th June. That was the first night of the Ramzan; and according to the evidence, his co-religionists got up at 3 a. m. to prepare their meals. If the prisoner did so also, the evidence of some of the inmates could have easily been obtained to show that he was in the house. But none had been called.

At the close of his lordship's summing up at 7-30 p. m., the jury retired to their room for consultation. They returned into court in half an hour, when the foreman said that eight of them were for a verdict of guilty on both charges—one juror dissenting.

The judge said the verdict of the majority was in accordance with his own opinion.

The prisoner, on being asked, what he had to say, said that he had not committed the murder.

The judge, in passing sentence, said.—Mirza Aga Secunder, the jury, upon a long and patient hearing, have, by a large majority, and in spite of a very able defence by your counsel, found you guilty of the crime of murder. My opinion concurs with that expressed by the majority; and it remains for me to pass upon you the sentence which the law directs on persons found guilty of that crime. His lordship then formally sentenced the prisoner to be hanged.

The court adjourned at 8-10 p.m. until this (Friday) morning.

HIGH COURT.—SEPTEMBER 11.

(Before the Hon. Mr. Justice SCOTT.)

THE AFFAIRS OF BARTON AND CO.

THEREZA PEREIRA VS. B. S. DE CONCEICAO AND ANOTHER.

MR. INVERARITY, instructed by Messrs. Hore, Conroy, and Brown for the plaintiff, the widow and executrix of John Michael Pereira, moved for a rule nisi, for an injunction and receiver, restraining the defendants from mortgaging or selling 30,000 shares of Barton and Co., Limited, and from dealing with a sum of Rs. 31,795 now in their hands. Plaintiff's late husband was a partner of the defendants in carrying on the business of the late firm of Barton and Co., general merchants and chemists, at 43, Meadow-street. In May, 1882, he obtained from Messrs. Meiffre Neveu and Co., a lease of the present premises in Chesney-gate-street. After his death, which took place on the 15th May, 1883, the defendants, in answer to a solicitor's notice, stated that the interest of the deceased in the firm ceased at his death. On the 10th October, 1883, the defendants sold the lease and goodwill and stock-in-trade of the firm of Barton and Co. to a joint-stock company under the name of Barton and Co., Limited, which took over the property and premises of the late firm on the 10th November, 1883. On the 9th May the new company made over to the defendants a sum of Rs. 31,795 and 30,000 shares of the company. There was a clause in the lease to the effect that the premises could not be sublet or relet without the consent of the lessors. They had consequently filed a suit against the plaintiff, as executrix of her late husband, for damages. They had obtained against the plaintiff a judgment in the Small Causes Court for arrears of rent. The partnership assets were not safe in the hands of the defendants, who were in embarrassed circumstances. The first defendant had obtained the benefit of the Insolvent Act.

His lordship granted the application.

Holloway's Pills.—Though good health is preferable to high honour, how regardless people often are of the former—how covetous of the latter! Many suffer their strength to drain away ere maturity is reached, through ignorance of the facility afforded by these incomparable Pills of checking the first untoward symptoms of derangement, and reinstating order without interfering in the least with their pleasure or pursuits. To the young especially it is important to maintain the highest digestive efficiency, without which the growth is stunted, the muscles become lax, the frame feeble, and the mind of shrivel. The removal of indigestion by these Pills is so easy that none save the most thoughtless would permit it to sap the springs of life.
